Physiology
UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

DEPARTMENTAL DEADLINE: Friday, March 18, 2022

Application Form - Graduate Life Sciences Education (GLSE) - 2022

Eligiblity: must have at least a B+ (GPA of 3.3) average or higher and are responsible for securing a position with a Physiology supervisor; interest in future graduate training; available to work for a minimum of 12 weeks (dates to be determined between you and your supervisor); must attend weekly seminars and participate in the mini-conference generally held the first week of August.

Student Name:	Student Number:
Student E-mail:	Telephone Number:
Address:
Current University:	Current Year of Study:
Program (subject posts):	CGPA:
List Relevant Lab Courses and Research Experience:
Statement of research interest and future goals: (maximum 100 word count/600 characters):

Research Title:
Supervisor Name:	Supervisor Signature:
Lab Address:
Start Date: (12 weeks minimum)	End Date:

GLSE support:	$ 2,500	For research involving human subjects, animals, radiation and/or biosafety, the approval number and expiry date must be listed:
Supervisor (minimum $2,500)	$
TOTAL FUNDING FOR STUDENT	$

PLEASE NOTE:

- Please email your application and a copy of your transcript to physiology.undergrad@utoronto.ca by March 18, 2022.
- This studentship is open to both U of T and non U of T students going into 3rd and 4th year of basic life sciences programs with an interest in pursuing graduate training
- it is the responsibility of the supervisor to ensure that their student is covered by the appropriate protocol
- Students must not have started a program of graduate studies